Open-Access Policy – Journals

Open-access texts: usage rights

Users are granted limited and revocable permission to access and make personal use (including permission to print off one copy, and to download extracts) of any Juta open-access texts. This permission permits the use, distribution and reproduction in any Juta open-access texts, provided that the contribution is properly attributed, including citing Juta as the publisher and any identified contributors as the authors.

Users may not adapt or modify any print or digital copies of Juta's open-access texts in any way; or use any illustrations, photographs, video or audio sequences, or any graphics separately from any accompanying text.

Users may not use the Contribution with any generative AI tools or large language models (LLM) queries in the creation of any content.

Users who print off, copy, or download any part of the site or the open-access texts in breach of these terms, will cease immediately to have right of access to the texts and must, at Juta's option, return or destroy any copies of the open-access texts made.

This permission does not include any derivative use of the site or the texts, any collection and use of any product listings, descriptions, or prices; any downloading or copying of account information for the benefit of another merchant; or any use of data-mining, robots, or similar data-gathering and extraction tools. In addition, users may not use meta tags or any other 'hidden text' utilising our name without our express written consent.

No part of our open-access texts may be used for commercial purposes without first obtaining permission in writing to do so from Juta and Company (Pty) Ltd.
